Virden Farmer To Stay On Farm Even Though Land Is Producing Oil

VIRIDEN, Man.—Farmer Bill Skinner plans to continue growing grain and raising cattle on his oil-lubricated land. On his 320 acres are three producing oil wells—among the first free-flowing wells in Manitoba—and a fourth is being drilled.

But Bill is a farmer first and by heritage. And besides, "I've got to do something to keep out of mischief."

The farmhouse suits him fine too, although royalties from the three wells are expected to give him an income in the neighborhood of $35 a day, as a start.

"There's no need to move," he says. "We're almost living in town."

Now, it's only half a mile and our land runs right to the edge of Virden.

The farm has been his home since 1927, and passed into his hands after the death of his father. His mother is living and he has a family of his own, two boys and a girl. The girl is five and the boys seven and nine.

Bill was born in Virden. While he hasn't done much travelling—"I've always been tied down to the farm"—he isn't thinking of trips to California or Florida. Not yet, anyway.

Only roughly can it be estimated how much he's going to make through the mineral rights he has leased to an oil company.

Under terms of the lease he retained a 12½ per cent. royalty in any production obtained. Before oil was discovered he sold half his share to a group of Virden business men, leaving him a 6½ per cent.

The provincial conservation board has limited production from free-flowing wells to 70 barrels a day each, meaning for the time being a 4½ per cent. share in a daily flow of 210 barrels.

Promises of oil income "sure feels pretty good," says Bill. Not that the land didn't treat him all right before. "I've always had a dollar in my pocket," he says. "I hope to have two now."

The Skinner farm is in the Virden-Rosella oil fields, which now has 10 producing wells today. The outskirts of this agricultural community 183 miles west of Winnipeg. The first oil was discovered last August.

All the wells are free-flowing, something new for Manitoba. Most of the province's oil wells are in the Daily field, nine miles south of Virden. They must be pumped.

Oh yes, has Mrs. Skinner any ideas on spending the oil money? "She likely has," grinned her husband. "That's why I haven't asked her."

PAPER COMMITS GRAVEST ERROR

The Times in its special Christmas issue committed one of the gravest sins known to newspaper editors—left out an advertisement! To spell a person's name wrong, even naming the wrong people in the news column can be forgiven—but not omitting an advertisement. However, we were fortunate in that the Christmas greeting advertisement we omitted was that of Rabinovitch Bros., because Milton Rabinovitch is the type one can meekly apologize to and explain matters without being hung, drawn and quartered.—Morden Times.

More Than 4,000 Drivers Suspended In Manitoba During 1953

During December, 382 drivers of motor vehicles were suspended from Manitoba roads, bringing the total number of drivers under suspension at the end of 1953 to 4,162, it is reported by R. B. Baillie, Registrar of M. V. Suspensions at the end of 1952 totalled 2,708.

Of the 1953 year-end total, 2,167 drivers were under suspension because of serious convictions under the Highway Traffic Act and Criminal Code.

Of the balance, 1,384 were without insurance at the time of accident. Another 215 were considered accident-prone and conviction repeaters. Sixty-five had failed to pay judgments made against them in court. Three hundred and twenty-four were drivers were under suspension due to their failure to pass the driving test.

A break-down of the 2,167 drivers convicted on serious charges reveals that 729 were suspended for driving while impaired and 462 for driving while intoxicated. Four hundred and ninety-seven were driving to the common danger combined with an accident; 289 were hit-and-run drivers; and 10 were driving while still under suspension.

Majority of suspended drivers, 2,195 in number, live in the Greater Winnipeg area. Of the total number of reports, 1,263 originated with the R.C.M.P., 1,390 with the Winnipeg police force, 148 in St. Boniface, 106 in Brandon, and the balance in Winnipeg suburbs.

Five Pedigree Ayshire for Alberta

Five pedigree Ayshire cattle left Glasgow recently bound for Alberta. The bull and four heifers, all from the herd of Mr. Dudley Beck, Darland Hall, Denbighshire, president of the breed society, are going to Chesham Farm, Forest Lawn, Alberta. The bull is by Leamessack Certified, which also sired two of the heifers. The two remaining heifers are by Leamessack Lee. Large Canadian Contract For Metropolitan Vickers

A contract worth more than $1,500,000 has been received by a U.K. firm from the Calgary Power Company. This order, obtained in the face of stiff competition, covers the supply of a 66,000 kw, 3,600 r.p.m. steam turbo-generating set, said to be the largest ever ordered by Canada. The new set, which will be manufactured in Manchester, will consist of a two-cylinder turbine, operating with inlet steam conditions of 1,250 p.s.i.g., 950 degrees Fahrenheit and driving 13,500 volt A.C. generator of the hydrogen-cooled type. TO MODERNIZE ACCOMMODATION AT CYPRESS HILLS

Modern tourist and vacation accommodation at Cypress Hills Provincial Park will be a reality in 1954.

Mr. Campbell, Director of the Parks Branch of the Saskatchewan government said recently that there is a constant demand for modern accommodation in the various parks. In order to meet this demand at Cypress Hills, the parks branch have under construction at the present time, eleven cabins, four of which are duplex-type structures.

It is the intention of the parks branch to build, to also modernize three nearby cabins which will make available a total of 18 modern units, all of which will be equipped for light housekeeping. All cabins are well shaded by tall lodge pole pine trees amid picturesque surroundings.

In addition to the modern cabins under construction there are 28 non-modern cabins, as well as a lodge with 16 sleeping rooms. All are equipped with electricity.

Funny and Otherwise

"So Daphne took a rich old man for better or worse." "No, she took him for worse, and he got better."

Farmer Giles had an ambitious son who came up to London to make his fortune. He had no luck, however, and ended up as a hobo. The farmer continued to work on his farm. Now the father makes hay while the son shines.

"Dad, I've got my first part in a play," said the young would-be actor. "I play the part of a man who has been married for 20 years."

"That's a good start," encouraged his father. "Maybe one of these days you'll get a speaking part."

A famous ballet dancer constantly confounded his colleagues and his public with his amazing leaps, which were marvels of beauty.

"How do you do them?" asked a friend one night, after watching from the wings. "Oh, it's quite simple," replied the dancer. "All you have to do is jump into the air—and pause a little."

A man entered a florist's shop and said he wanted some flowers to take home. He had been looking on the wine when it was red and the flowers were intended as a domestic peace offering.

The florist picked out a dozen chrysanthemums and the customer continued to leave. At the door he hesitated. "I say," he said, "what's 'whatah these flowers called?'"

"Chrysanthemums." The customer shook his head. "Got to have something easier than that," he said. "Give 'dozen pinks'."

Two members of a club met in the smoking-room. The first looked grave as he shook hands with his friend, who was very deaf. "I'm sorry," he said, "to hear of the death of your uncle."

"Eh? What's that?" asked the deaf one.

"I'm sorry to hear your uncle is dead."

"Speak up, man; I can't hear you."

"I'm sorry to hear you've buried your uncle."

"But," said the deaf one, "I came the unexpected reply, 'He died.'"

A man visiting St. Andrews for the first time determined to try a round of golf. Furnishing himself with the usual implements and a caddy, he went out to the links.

It seemed quite easy, and his first drive was a terrific swerve. When the turf had ceased to respond he turned, somewhat dazed, to the caddy and asked: "What did I hit just now, my lad?"

"Scotland, sir."

"Look here," stormed Brown to the estate agent. "About that riverside bungalow you sold me."

"Anything wrong, sir?" "Wrong!" exclaimed Brown. "The other morning we woke up and found the thing had floated two miles down the river."

"I'm," said the agent. "That's a stroke of luck. The rates are much lower down there."

The list of prizewinners at a social gathering included the following: "Mrs. Smith won the ladies' rolling-pin throwing contest by hurling a pin 75 feet. Mr. Smith won the 100 yards dash."

"Certainly, my dear, certainly," he said as he hurried to the train. "You are right and I am wrong, as you usually are."

"How nice of you," she said, "and then thought it over."

Veteran Printer Of Alta. Passes On

Many interesting reminiscences are recalled in the death of Fort Macleod's veteran printer, Tom Clarke, who died on Sunday in a rest home in Camrose, following several months there after leaving here during 1953, in February last.

He was one of the old printers who set type by hand, in the days before Linotype machines were used on daily and weekly newspapers. He was indeed credited for one of such an advanced age. He occasionally would drop around to have a chat with him, and he would display old photos of historic interest, of his five years' service in the North-West Mounted Police, and of his early connection with the Calgary Herald when its first issues were set up and printed in a tent.

For many years and up till about 1945 he played in the local band, and would march with the boys playing a hefty brass instrument.

He never lost his love of newspaper writing, and contributed many stories to the Lethbridge Herald dealing with life over 60 years ago in what is now Alberta. He came from Ipswich, Suffolk County, England, with his parents to Meaford, Ontario, where he was apprenticed to the printing trade, and later, after coming west as a constable in the police he was transferred to the printing trade to help turn out their first few editions.

Always cheerful even though he lived alone for many years in rooms adjoining his printing shop, he would prove himself a keen conversationalist, and would keep one interested as long as one would care to listen. His memory was remarkable and he enjoyed life by keeping well equipped with his work.—H.T.H., The Macleod Gazette.

You can't go ALL-OUT

If you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and mind makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may cause normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, dizziness, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulates the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—work better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter.

Home Workshop

This desk was designed for a student's room. The pieces shown in the sketch make excellent projects for both beginners and advanced students in shop work. The exposed parts of the desk are of plywood which may be obtained in many different surfaces of natural wood. The large pieces of plywood are easy to cut and assemble. The pattern illustrates each step from the list of materials to the finished desk. The chair is made with pattern 224; the lamp is 204; the initial bookends 401; and the plywood picture frame is made from pattern 301. These patterns are 35c each. All five copies will be mailed to one address for $1.50 postpaid.

CUT-OUT LETTERS 4 INCHES HIGH

Included with this beautifully-designed alphabet are directions for making a magazine rack, a waste basket, bookends and a holder for letters or napkins. Wood of a thickness of one-quarter to three-quarters of an inch may be used for these smoothly rounded letters. Also initials cut from lucite, sheet copper, brass or aluminum will add distinction and personalize various objects made of wood or art metal. These letters may be cut from wood with an ordinary hand fret saw, but a table model jig saw using a jeweler's blade would be far the most satisfactory for plastics and metals. The alphabet and four designs on which to apply initials on pattern 401. Copy will be mailed for 35c.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

END OF A DREAM

By Robert L. Skelly

THE other day I happened to pass through the old neighborhood and I noticed that Mrs. O'Reilly's rooming house was all boarded up. From the looks of things the kids around the street had quite a time during the snow falls last winter—there's not a whole pane of glass in the place. Well, I guess the kids have a right to bust a window now and then—keeps them out of more serious trouble.

For a moment I just stood there and looked over the place. I seemed to see it the way it used to look when Harry and I used to board with Ma O'Reilly. Those were the days when the sledding was pretty rough on most of us young fellows.

Our fortunes couldn't be blamed on us either—Harry and myself had both stood pretty high in our classes at Columbia that year. We thought that we were going to re-make the whole darn world. We wound up working in a couple of grocery stores for fourteen bucks a week. I make no excuses—it was the best you could get with a sheepskin and we grabbed it.

Well, Harry's been gone for about 10 years now. Tough break, too.

The story of Harry, if you call it one, started when he was delivering in a pretty snazzy section. About the worst thing that could happen to a fourteen-dollar-a-week delivery boy happened—he fell for a dame. She lived in the "biggest house on the street." From what Harry used to tell me about the joint I guess it spelled dough with a capital dollar sign. Every night when Harry got in from work all he would talk about was this girl. Sometimes he would almost get poetic telling about her smile, her hair, her eyes and all those little things that a guy notices in a girl he likes. What I could never get about the whole deal was that Harry had never spoken to the girl in all the time he had been delivering around there. Maybe every now and then she would give him a sweet smile when he passed by—I don't know.

One night Harry surprised me by telling me that he hadn't gone to work that day, but had gotten himself a job that made real money. Naturally, I was interested—a little jealous, too, I guess. Right away I started to think that maybe I could work my way in on the deal, too. I found out that they were digging a tunnel someplace and that he had a job as a shod-hog. He said that he'd get about a hundred and twenty-five a week. After he had made a little at that job he was going to quit the girl.

The next day was the last time that Ma O'Reilly and I saw Harry. Maybe he felt bad about leaving us, but he was so darn het up about his job that I guess that's why it didn't show.

After a week or so I quit the wild duck population on the Battle River near Camrose was uncovered by the Camrose Fish and Game Association. Thousands of ducks have been marooned on the lake and are dying off rapidly from starvation and cold weather. Local sportsmen made a survey of the situation and found the ducks as weak and thin from lack of food that they were unable to fly and were freezing to death slowly in the ice of the river. One flock of ducks found a farmer's greenfeed stack and succeeded in demolishing a good part of the stack, to the consternation of the farmer.

Fish and Game President Len Blades brought a lovely specimen of a greenhead mallard into The Canadian office that weighed less than a pound. The normal weight of this duck in good condition would run over three pounds, but the skeleton was all bones and feathers. Frozen solid, the bird was found on the edge of the bank, near some remaining corn cobs and other predators.

For a long time I just sat there and ran over the things Harry and I had told ourselves we were going to do—the things we had done—the good times—the bad times—our jokes—our fights. Maybe I was wrong, but some of the things made me grin, some made me laugh—none of them made me cry. Eating supper that night was something that I just couldn't do. Poor Mrs. O'Reilly was so broken up over it that I was afraid that she might have a stroke. I called up the stove and told the manager what had happened. I told him that I was afraid that Mrs. O'Reilly was taking it too hard and that I was going to stay with her. Around eleven o'clock I got Mrs. O'Reilly to smile for me and then I thought that she would be all right.

About two the bell rang. It was the girl that Harry had fallen for. She told me that the grocery man had told her that Mrs. O'Reilly wanted to see her. Before I could figure it out Mrs. O'Reilly was ushering the girl into the living room.

She told the girl the whole story, including Harry's dream about a girl who lived in a big house.

"Why didn't he tell me? I'm only the maid," cried the girl, tears streaming down her face. (Copyright 1934 by the author)

How Safe Is Your Farm House?

Are cooking utensils handles turned back from stove edges, to prevent tipping and out of reach of children's hands?

Are stairways clear of boxes, maps, brooms, tools, etc.

Are all electrical connections out of reach of the bath tub?

Do you have a light switch or lamp near your bed which can be reached safely in the dark?

Do you disconnect the washing machine cord when not in use?

Do you provide special containers for broken glass, etc.

The answer to all these questions should be "YES." Check them for yourself and if they don't all agree at present, try and be 100 per cent. correct as soon as possible.

OFFICIALLY DESIGNATED AS "FIELDS"

Midale Oil Area Now Regarded As One Of Sask. Promising Fields For Production

Recorded as one of Saskatchewan's most promising areas for oil production, the Midale field is one of four areas in the province which have been officially designated as "fields." This announcement was made at the end of the year by Hon. J. H. Brockelbank, minister of mineral resources.

The number of official oil fields in Saskatchewan now is 14, besides three areas defined as pools. The legal description of the Midale field includes land immediately surrounding the area in which Shell Oil Company has completed seven producing wells with a failure and is drilling at another site as well as having indicated location for other development wells.

The discovery well was the A-7-18, also known as the Shell Peterson well. It was drilled in May, 1953. Oil from this field so far has been of a high medium gravity grade, 27 to 30 degrees, according to American Petroleum Institute standards. The three other newly-designated fields are at Dollard, Rapihan and Java. The Dollard field is located in the Eastern area of southwestern Saskatchewan, and is a heavy gravity (18 API) oil field discovered in September. The Rapihan field also is in the southwestern part of the province, 80 miles south of Swift Current. Discovered in February, the field produces oil rated at 23 degrees API.

The Java medium gravity field (20-21) is about five miles west of Swift Current and the discovery well was drilled in February. —Eaton Mercury.

BUILDING AT GRANDE PRAIRIE HITS HALF MILLION DURING 1953

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta. — Thirty new homes were built in Grande Prairie last year, a year which saw the value of new construction in town reach an unofficial mark of $525,000.

A review of 1953 town hall building returns indicated more emphasis was placed on new housing than for a number of years. Not counting a new addition to the high school and a new Separate Board high school, together were valued at more than $150,000, building total for the year was $376,012.

Town officials pointed out that this year's general building was not much behind last year when it was remembered that a permit for the $250,000 Federal Building was included in last year's total.

In the general building category, July was the biggest single month in 1953. Permits for a total of $101,427, including a $50,000 permit to American Petroleum Corporation for construction of five houses, were issued.

Favorite month for new home builders was July. Permits for 11 new houses were issued in that month. In May, second biggest month for new home construction, eight permits were issued.

Smallest monthly total for the year was chalked up in January when permits for only $1,750 worth of construction were issued.

PREDICTS CANADA WILL CONTINUE TO LEAD WORLD WHEAT PRODUCERS

W. C. McNamara, of Winnipeg, assistant chief commissioner of the Canadian Wheat Board thinks Canadian wheat exports will be down for this crop year but that Canada will continue to be the largest wheat exporting nation in the world.

Mr. McNamara said that if Canada is successful in selling to the United Kingdom, around 122 million bushels of wheat for each of the next three years it will mean that this country will have a total export market of around 280 million bushels annually.

He said that a grain commission will leave Canada for the Far East early in 1954, with the purpose of expanding wheat sales in that region.

I would like to take this opportunity of saying a most sincere thank you to all the friends who remembered me with cards, letters and gifts during my long stay in hospital. TB SEAL DOLLARS STILL NEEDED

Christmas Seal collections for Edmonton and Northern Alberta are nearing the $88,000 objective, it is reported by T. E. Thompson, chairman of the Edmonton Kinmen Club TB Seal sales committee, and Friday amounted to $79,100.

Only $8,900 short of the objective, the campaign could go over the top in another few days if everyone who intends to contribute would do so without delay.

Hockey Talkie

(From The Viking News)

According to the Vermilion Standard the Viking Gas Kings are much improved from last year as seen from a writeup appearing in that excellent paper last week:

"The league-leading Viking Gas Kings spoiled a perfectly good hockey game here Wednesday night for Vermilion fans when they scored six goals in the third period to win 9 to 2. Starting the third it was 3-2 and anybody's game up to that point. The Gas Kings however turned the pressure on the very youthful Tigers and notched six counters without a reply.

Viking has a much improved team from last winter. They have all their old stalwarts and have added a number of fast young players. It would take all that the 1952-53 edition of the Tigers could do to handle the present squad.

Viking played a good clean game and this pleased the fans mightily, they made no attempt to use their weight and paid strict attention to hockey as it should be played."

The above is a nice compliment to all members of the Gas King squad. Take a bow, Gas Kings, and coach Lewis.

Yes, we agree, the Gas Kings are a good club, play rugged hockey according to today's standards, and whenever and wherever they play, will give the fans a run for their money. After all, the fans pay the shot.

The Strawberry Plains W.P. meeting has been postponed to January 28 on account of the cold weather. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. M. Creasy.

Don't forget the Home and School Variety Program Jan. 25 in the school auditorium.

We are very sorry to record the loss of Mrs. Mary Savage who passed away in the Royal Alex hospital on Friday, Jan. 16 following a major operation. Full obituary next week.

Two or three times this past week temperatures have dipped down further than the 40 below zero mark. If we had begun to think earlier in the winter that our winters were getting milder these last 7 or 8 days have proved otherwise. There has been a breeze most of the time too, which has certainly added to the general discomfort. However, there's always a chance that by the time this appears in print our chinook weather of the past two months may have swung around this way again.

Mrs. Adam Miles is a patient in the Royal Alex hospital, having undergone a major operation. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Not much news this week. Ink won't thaw out either.

Mr. H. L. Black is a patient in the Royal Alex hospital having undergone an operation. His many friends here hope he will soon be home and as good as new.

We would like to acknowledge letters received with the always welcome subscriptions from Mrs. Ivan Bolger and girls at Kyle, Sask., Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fuder at Red Deer. Mrs. Bolger and daughters are well and have had a good Christmas with relatives and friends. They say they enjoy reading the Times and thought our Christmas issue was special this year. Mr. and Mrs. Fuder and family send New Year greetings and express sympathy for those who suffered the loss of loved ones at Irma this Christmas time. They wish a speedy recovery to Berge Gulbraa and say they enjoy reading the Times each week. Thanks for those kind words, folks.

In spite of the extreme cold this past week a crew have been busily engaged in the village digging post holes, erecting poles and changing over separate wires to cable system. It must have been chilly work.

Irma folk are sorry indeed to learn of the death of Mr. George Miles who passed away in Edmonton on Tuesday last. Funeral services will be held from the Irma United Church on Friday, January 22 at 2:00 p.m.

The name of Mr. Roy Burton should be added to the list of those who donated to the United Church Memorial Fund in memory of the late Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Glasgow.

Due to shortage of space this week a few articles had to be left out, but they will appear next week.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

ALBERTA'S INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT

Employment and prosperity for the citizen result when industry processes Alberta's raw materials within the province. Your government, through its progressive and sound legislation, stable administration, its deep conviction in the principles of free enterprise, and its unbiased attitude toward labor-management relations, encourages industries to locate in Alberta.

THE INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT BOARD prepares economic surveys, maps and industrial information bulletins regarding industrial possibilities of Alberta towns and cities; and distributes these to industrialists all over the world. All sections of the province are studied in detail, and industrial policies are designed to benefit the province as a whole. THE ALBERTA RESEARCH COUNCIL conducts vitally important surveys into availabilities and size of industrial mineral deposits. The Council experiments with new mechanical and technical processes designed to aid industry.

PROSPERITY THROUGH INDUSTRY. Supporting Agriculture, which is the province's main economic activity, there are now 2,000 manufacturing plants with an annual payroll of $40,000,000, and a production of $500,000,000 worth of goods and materials each year.

To this excellent record of industrial achievement can be added such new plants as Canadian Chemical Co. Ltd., producing acetate, chemicals and filament yarns; Canadair Industries Limited producing polythene fabric; and the refinery of Shell-Gordon Ltd., for the recovery of nickel, copper and cobalt. Establishment of these and allied industries indicate a bright industrial future for Alberta and new prosperity for its people.
